Damian White, Head of Digby Brown's Ayr Office, said:

"We will be local and accessible to people who need help after a personal injury. Digby Brown are here to help individuals across Ayr, Ayrshire, Dumfries and Galloway, from Largs in the North to Stranraer in the Southwest and over to Gretna in the South. I would encourage anyone looking for personal injury legal advice to get in touch with us."

“Ayr is a place that means a lot to me, it is where I started my legal career, and I am really proud to be returning to the town to lead a new town centre office and to offer our support and experience to the people of Ayrshire and beyond. We want to be an active part of the community. Our local team have chosen The Lauren Currie Twilight Foundation as our charity of the year. It is a great organisation that does inspirational work and everyone in the Ayr office will be getting right behind it. “

Fraser Oliver, Digby Brown Chief Executive, said:

“Our aim is to be there for our clients when they need our help most. That is why we are investing in a new local office, helping to reverse the trend which has seen businesses move away from town centres.

“Our Ayr office, like our other six across Scotland, will be focused on delivering the very best in client care and ensuring people injured in an accident get access to justice. Led by Damian White, we have a great team in place who combine local knowledge and legal expertise.
